Poker Tables

Poker is unique because it's the only game in the casino where players compete against each other, so there's no house advantage. It's just you and your guests trying to outwit, outplay, and out bluff each other. Texas Hold'em is the most popular form of poker in the world – think World Series Of Poker that you always see on TV. If you have any poker players on your guest list you want to have at least one poker table at your party.

Poker Tables are rented for at least 4 hours per night. Poker tables are 8 feet in size and accommodates up to 8 people. Includes playing cards, Texas Hold'em rules and 300 chips.

Casino Night Rentals

Roulette tables

The roulette player is a special breed. While many people will play, every party has a handful of players who call roulette their game. They are hypnotized by the spin of the wheel, the sound of the ball against the mahogany, and the sight of the ball bouncing around desperately trying to find their number. It's a rags to riches game which no casino should be without.

Roulette Tables are rented for 4 hours per night. Roulette tables are 10' by 6', with a 3' table top and regulation mini size Roulette Wheel. Accommodates 8-10 people. Includes 300 Roulette chips and Roulette rules. Roulette table requires at least two dealer if requested but 3 are recommended

NOBODY has what we have in the Whole of East Africa.

One of the great things about a casino night event is that you can have a great time throwing a rocking party all for a good cause. If you're considering a casino night event, think about partnering with a local charity to help raise some funds. There are several ways you can go here.

One option is to charge money for tickets to attend the casino event. Typically, the ticket will also buy guests a certain amount of gaming chips to get them started. Or you could have free entry, but the guests have to buy in to get their chips.

Casino Night Rentals

At the end of the night, the guests won't trade in their chips for cash like at a real casino, but they get the prestige of being the big winner for the night and the honor of helping out a worthy cause in the process. If you want, you can offer a few prizes for top winners to give them a little something to play for.

Work within your budget

If you're going to throw a great casino night event, it's going to cost some money. Hiring dealers, renting gaming equipment, buying food and beverages, decorating your space -- it all adds up. It's best to decide what your budget is early on and then back your way into what you can afford.

If you have a limited budget, you won't be able to have it all, so you'll need to prioritize what is most important. This is true for any party, but especially true for such a specifically themed event like a casino night. Food, drinks and décor are all important, but for a casino night, the top priority has to be the games. Put that at the top of your list, and then see what you can afford in the way of professional dealers. And remember, requiring your guests to "buy in" for the gaming can also help cover a lot of the costs.

We are the talk of the town!
